We're a Top Human Resources Blog!

The person I write for here each day, and occasionally tap great guest writers for, is a small business president or CEO looking to see a payoff of employee engagement. But based on the depth that we often go into exploring practices that help sustain a productive workplace, I know that many HR professionals also read this blog.

So I was honored to learn last week that we were named a 2010 Top 40 Human Resources Blog by AwardingTheWeb and Online MBA. You can view the other 39 honorees here – I am humbled that we join the company of blogs that I follow and admire such as All Things Workplace, Bob Sutton's Work Matters, and Leading Blog.

My thanks to AwardingTheWeb and Online MBA for this honor; it is truly appreciated.
