Today – rather than, as earlier reported, August 31 – is the early bird deadline to register for our Leadership Conference in Denver on October 27-29, in partnership with Inc. Magazine. Through today, you can attend Buy Accutane this event at a $300 savings.

I've written before about what you can expect to gain by joining us in Denver in October – namely, management and employee leadership development tips to save money and grow revenue, provided by leaders of both small and large businesses that have continued to do well in this tough economy.

To give you a better sense of what you can expect to learn from the incredible speakers we've booked for this event, visit the links below to articles on our website, and this blog, covering them:

- Small But Great (Norm Brodsky, CitiStorage; Bo Burlingham, Small Giants Community)
- Inc. Magazine's Takeaways from Covering Our 2010 Small Business Award Finalists (Leigh Buchanan, Inc. Magazine)
- Listening to Employee Needs (Mike Faith, Headsets.com)
- How Generation Y Entrepreneurs Are Changing the World (Donna Fenn, BNET and SBTV.com)
- Focused on the Future (Jeffrey Hollender, Seventh Generation)
- Succession as a Values Test (Paul Silvis, Restek)
- Employee Development ROI: 80 Percent of Revenues from Return Business or Referrals (Larry O'Toole, Gentle Giant Moving)
- Best Bosses Under Four Types Defined by Bob Rosner (Bob Rosner, The Boss's Survival Guide)
- Five CEOs Who Eschew Offices to Work Alongside Employees, and Why (Tom Walter, Tasty Catering)
- People Practices Fuel Three Stages of Revenue Growth at King Arthur Flour (Steve Voigt, King Arthur Flour)

And let's not forget another benefit we always hear from attendees of our conferences, which can often be just as valuable as education on achieving productive workplace cultures – the potential to grow your Rolodex with the contact information of speakers and attendees alike!
