Last week I shared five management acronyms used by great workplaces that I thought should be on your radar screen. One of our readers who enjoyed this post was Debbie Regnone. Debbie is President of Resort Sports, Inc., a Florida company that creates custom events to "build camaraderie and team spirit."

She wrote us an email in response to our post in which she shared two more helpful management acronyms for a more productive workplace. Here's what she said:

Here is one Cheap Cialis more that I would guess you have heard of, but worth re-posting:

TEAM

T – Together

E – Each

A – Accomplishes

M – More

Nothing could say it better! In management, work teams, employee engagement, community service and our homes...if we could all just remember to apply this concept FLOW (Fearless Leaps of Worth – I just made that up!) would be exhibited as individuals stepped outside their comfort zones, in like-minded groups, to meet goals and complete tasks AS ONE rather than BY ONE.

Our thanks to Debbie for her permission to share her thoughts here for the benefit of all our readers.
